COOLIDGE HITS LAFOLLETTE IN LABOR SPEECH

"We Do Not Need to Import Foreign Economic Ideas," He Declares.

"TULL DINNER PAIL" IS AIM OF EXECUTIVE

Blue Government Scored; Present Prosperity Emphasized Before Hearers.

Special to The Free Press.
Washington, Sept. 1.—Coolidge today outlined his views on labor, pledged himself that the administration's post-war deflation policy would never be extended to labor, and pleaded for a "common sense, American brand of government."

The president delivered his labor platform in the east room of the White House before a group of several hundred representatives of labor-unions and non-union alike—who had come to pledge their support to the Republican ticket.

Tuill to be Liked.
Mr. Coolidge showed, with elaborate statistical compilation, that American labor earns more with greater purchasing power than does labor in any other nation of the world. He cited the protective tariff, restrictive immigration, expansion of the federal reserve system, distribution of the unemployment fund of 1921, and the government's economy and taxation programs, as responsible for this condition. The president then declared himself against a "labor government" and indirectly attacked the candidacy of Senator LaFollette as sponsored by the American Federation of Labor.

"We do not need to import any foreign economic ideas for our own government," he said. "We had better stick to the American brand of government. The American brand of equality and the American brand of wages. America had better stay American."

"It is an far common-sense government by all the people according to the American policy and under the American constitution. The president explained he wanted all the people to continue to be partners in self-government. He urged a government under our constitution that was not put into effect by the voice of the people."
Ask Labor Vote.
Mr. Coolidge particularly appealed to the labor world through the comparison of wages and hours to-day with those of the pre-war period, and a further comparison

PARIS RENEWS LEAGUE FIGHT FOR SECURITY

Ex-President Millerand Heads Campaign to Resist Further Concessions.

CAUTIONS DELEGATES ON 'BRITISH FRIENDS'

Declares Evacuation of Ruhr Undermines French Defenses; Defends Treaties.

Special Cable to The Free Press and London, Sept. 1.—A powerful offensive has been launched from Paris against all the forces believed to be working at Geneva through the League of Nations to undermine the security of France.

Culminating with the opening of the League assembly, a campaign has opened here under the leadership of ex-President Millerand to resist the reduction of French territory and other French detriments against making any more concessions.

Contradicts Mack's Opinion.
Millerand's intervention in receiving all the more attention because of the high post he has occupied and also because of his alleged part in lifting about Premier Briand's difficulties at Geneva when the then premier's attitude regarding the military part proposed by Great Britain did not correspond with Millerand's own policy.

Millerand's long interview, Vice-President Mack's opinion as communicated to the chamber of deputies in a speech. The ex-president says: "Our presence in the Ruhr increases our prestige in the eyes of security. Our departure will diminish it."

He brings up the question of the evacuation of the British zone in January, 1923, and asks why the substitution of French troops in the British zone has not been discussed.

Warns Against British.
Millerand warns the French representatives at Geneva that their duty as Frenchmen is to keep before them the possibility of a European dependence upon respect for the treaties concluded since the war.

He cautions those against the British proposal "by some of our British friends, including certain members of the present cabinet," according to which the Versailles treaty should be thrown away and the same treaty should be made a new one—French and German on an equality—as the only means of establishing peace.

HAMMER DEATH JAILS DIVORCEE AND 2 CHILDREN

Employe of Butcher Shop Found Slain in Auto in Rear of Apartment.

CALLED AT HER HOME, WOMAN TELLS POLICE

Victim's Recent Quarrel With Another Man Probed by Detective.

Mrs. Irene Hallinger, 30-year-old divorcee, living at 12355 East Jefferson avenue, was held with her two children for questioning Monday while police were investigating the murder of Clyde Keller, 45, meat cutter in a butcher shop at 12377 East Jefferson avenue, in the same building as Mrs. Hallinger's home.

Keller's body was found in the rear of an automobile truck in the rear of the shop at 1:45 Monday morning by Thomas Radin, 12377 East Jefferson avenue, and Clyde Stevenson, 8422 West Forest avenue. He had been struck over the head with a hammer, which was on the rear of the auto beside him. It carried blood stains and some hair.

Called at Her Home.
Detective Joseph Decker, discovered that the body had been dragged some distance, the trail leading to the slaying of the butcher apartment. The railing on the stair was broken. Mrs. Decker told the detective that Keller had called at her home Sunday night and that he had been drinking.

At Keller's home in Emerson avenue, it was learned he left three hours after noon, after a dinner with Mrs. Hallinger. Decker also learned that a few nights before Keller and another man had quarreled in the woman's apartment.

Money Left in Pockets.
That robbery was not the motive of the crime was made evident by the fact that the keys to the front door of the shop were found on the ground near the back door and that Keller's pockets contained the $20 which, it was learned, was left in Mrs. Hallinger's hand when she divorced. The children are Russell, a year old, and Irene, 6.

Prince Nearly Mobbed By Race Track Crowd

Wales Becomes Frightened and Asks Spectators to Move Away.

Special to The Free Press.
Belmont Park, New York, Sept. 1.—The Prince of Wales came close to being mobbed by a curiously maddened throng this afternoon when he suddenly appeared at the race track here to see the international special race, in which the great French horse, Epineux, was ridden by Wm. Coussinier.

During the race, Wales was somewhat frightened, and asked the nearest spectators to withdraw. He was at the danger of the crash had scattered the prince appeared, and begged spectators to get out of the way as quickly as possible.

The prince called the excitement considerably by consenting to meet for the struggling crowdman who surrounded him, he was preparing freely and wiped the beads from his forehead and cheeks with a red handkerchief.

Mrs. August Belmont and Mrs. Robert Swarthout, who had accompanied the prince to the racetrack, had their gowns bedraggled by the crowd. During the light of the race, the prince's appearance looked green and frowsy, a number of both breaking away the extra weight.

The prince wore a slate-colored suit with white pin stripes, his hat was black and he wore a pocket handkerchief in his breast pocket. He had on the same knee-length pants he had worn in the polo field yesterday. The prince left over to the racing field from Belmont after luncheon at the Park Hotel. A number of the prince's friends were there ready for the evening the three royal sets for the evening. The prince's appearance was much improved by the time the spectators learned the identity of the spectators he took his place at the head of the procession.

CHANCELLOR ASKS MERCY FOR YOUTH WHO SHOT HIM

DR. DUANE SHIPLEY.

Vienna, Sept. 1.—(By The Associated Press)—Dr. Ignaz Joseph, chancellor of Austria, who was shot and seriously wounded by East Jewry, a young factory worker, last June, has asked President Hainisch to initiate the procedure which the president intends to issue for a certain class of criminals. Proceedings against young Jewry, whose trial was set for the end of September, probably will be dropped. The chancellor was moved to ask mercy for his assailant because of his frailties at the moment.

30 CARS LADEN WITH GUNS DASH INTO HERRIN

Efforts to Trace Automobiles Fail, More Bloodshed is Predicted.

WARRANTS FOR SHERIFF, PROSECUTOR ARE ISSUED

State's Attorney Blames Ministers; Churches Searched for Arms in Klan War.

Herrin, Ill., Sept. 1.—(By Associated Press)—Late this afternoon about thirty automobiles drove up to the rear of the Herrin city hall. Each one was loaded with rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

Efforts to trace the cars, which remained at the city hall only a short time, had proved unsuccessful up to 11 o'clock tonight.

Questions put to police and firemen who occupy the building were answered by negative head shakes. No one would talk and attempts to follow the cars met with little headway.

BY NEWSPAPER BROWNS.
Herrin, Ill., Sept. 1.—A heated clash between Adjutant General Charles D. Black, who thinks state troops are no longer necessary at Herrin, and State's Attorney DeLoe Dury, who is convinced they are, together with an open denunciation on the part of Mr. Dury of the President's ministers of Williamson county for their alleged friendship toward the K. K. Klan has complicated the principal developments in the Herrin trouble since today.

And while Mr. Dury was issuing his warning statement at Marion, the result of ministers' association was by conference at Herrin presenting a statement denouncing in turn the state's attorney and Sheriff George Galtigan, and holding them responsible for conditions which brought about the slaying of six men on the streets of Herrin last Saturday.

Will Withdraw Troops.
Mr. Dury, who is county attorney, prosecuted the Herrin massacre

NURSE POISON 'PLOT' DEEPENS

Mrs. Ingle Says "Doctor" Told Her Over 'Phone Hospital Faked Illness Story.

The mystery of the tragic "poisonings" was further deepened Monday by the statement of Mrs. Anne Ingle, 12355 Lincoln avenue, that she had been told by a "doctor" to "do nothing" as the Redfield Park General Hospital had telephoned her to say that newspaper reports of the illness of four babies, follow-
