

NOTHING LIKE PERSEVERANCE

The Chevrolets, Arthur, Lewis and Gaston, had a streak of hard luck today before two of them finally got into the race. Louis Chevrolet when working on his Frontenac broke the crank shaft beyond repair and Gaston having failed to qualify it looked as if Arthur would be the only Chevrolet in the race. At the last minute Joe Boyer, backer of the Frontenac Motors Company, was permitted to enter the qualifying test. He was successful and Louis Chevrolet was permitted to drive the entry qualified by Boyer. And thus two of the Chevrolet brothers and two Frontenacs were in the classic. In the picture above Louis Chevrolet is shown standing by the car, Gaston is back of the wheel and Boyer is standing up in the car.
