DICK JENNINGS, JR.

DICK JENNINGS, JR., Pittsburg millionaire, is the latest speed sensation in automobile circles.

Recently, at St. Louis, Jennings broke the world's record for 5, 10, 15 and 20 miles, formerly held by Barney Oldfield.

The entry into the motor racing game of Jennings will do much to boom the sport. Jennings is the type of sportsman long needed to fill the void left in the racing ranks by the passing of the late David Bruce Brown and Spencer Wishart, and the retirement of William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Caley Bragg.

Jennings is a protege of the old master, Louis Chevrolet. Aside from coaching him in the racing game, Chevrolet designed and built the Frontenac in which the records were made.
