

TWO SPEED KINGS HERE

BARNEY OLDFIELD, "world's master driver," as his press agents call him, and certainly the veteran of the racing game, and Louis Chevrolet, this year's speedway champion and also a veteran of the speed game, were visitors in El Paso for three days this week. They were driving from the eastern cities to California, where they will compete in the Thanksgiving day races and spend the winter.

While here, the speed merchants visited the Buquet Motor company's sales-rooms and inspected the chassis of the new Maxwell truck, which is now being marketed in quantities. Barney told a few tales of the Maxwell car he bought in El Paso two years ago and said that while it was stolen twice, he recovered it both times and it is now operating as his service car in Los Angeles "and still good for a few more thousand miles as well as a possible theft or two." Mrs. Oldfield and Mrs. Chevrolet accompanied the drivers.
