

COBE CUP WINNER'S WIFE IS ROBBED BY BURGLAR SHE ROUTS WITH SCREAM

Mrs. Louis Chevrolet, wife of the winner of the Cobe cup automobile race, was robbed in the night by a burglar, who entered her room on the fifth floor of the New Southern hotel, Thirteenth street and Michigan avenue. When she awoke and saw the thief she screamed, and the man fled, taking a small velvet case containing $100 worth of jewelry. Mrs. Chevrolet notified the hotel management by telephone and a search was conducted, but no trace of the thief was found.

Chevrolet was attending a banquet downtown and did not learn of the visit of the burglar until he returned to his apartments.

"My wife expected me home about 11 o'clock," said Mr. Chevrolet, "and when she retired she left the key in the outside of the lock, so that I might enter without her being obliged to get up. About 11:15 o'clock Mrs. Chevrolet was awakened by a commotion in the room, and found a man ransacking her dresser.

"She was thoroughly frightened, and feared to follow the man when he fled. She did not see how he left the building."

An attache of the hotel found the empty jewelry case in a hall on the fourth floor.
